Fort Bend County Launches New Mobility Projects Dashboard

Collaboration with LJA Engineering and County Engineering keeps residents informed

FORT BEND COUNTY, TX – Fort Bend County Commissioner Dexter L. McCoy is excited to announce a new dashboard created to keep residents up to date about the mobility bond projects happening across Fort Bend County. These projects include enhancing roadways, installing traffic circles and lights, and expanding sidewalks.

Developed in collaboration with Fort Bend County Engineering and LJA Engineering, residents can easily access detailed information such as project locations, scope of work, funding sources, and project statuses, all at their fingertips, from a phone or computer. They can view the information on an interactive map or in list form.

"With the Mobility Projects Dashboard, we're putting the power of information directly into the hands of the residents whose tax dollars are funding these projects," Commissioner Dexter L. McCoy stated. "It's another step in our commitment to transparency with our communities."

The dashboard can be accessed at <http://fbctx.gov/mobility>.
